Navajo Nation
Heritage & Historic Preservation Department
Development of the Navajo Nation Register of Historic Places, Cultural Landmarks, and Historic Preservation Plan

Under the authority of the Navajo Nation Cultural Resources Protection Act of 1988 (CRPA), the Navajo Nation Heritage and Historic Preservation Department (HHPD), within the Division of Natural Resources, is the designated agency responsible for the protection, preservation, and management planning of the Nation's cultural resources. The Department advises the Navajo Nation President, Tribal Council, divisions, departments, programs, and enterprises-as well as federal, state, and local governments and private entities-on all matters pertaining to cultural preservation on Navajo lands and lands of historical interest to the Navajopeople.

In alignment with the CRPA, the Department seeks to develop two foundational tools:

1. A Navajo Nation Register of Historic Places and Cultural Landmarks
2. A Navajo Nation Historic Preservation Plan

These tools will enhance the Nation's ability to protect sacred places and cultural knowledge, assert sovereignty in planning processes, and ensure that cultural resources are stewarded for future generations in accordance with Dine values and laws

Detailed instructions and minimum requirements for the bid may be obtained from Navajo Heritage and Historic Preservation located on Navajo Boulevard, W008-247, Historic Building No. 4 or calling Richard M.
